AUTOMOTIVE

Situated in new and expanded quarters in the new wing of the school is one of the busiest departments at McCann. Students in the Automotive Department study and repair many makes of automobiles, ranging from wheel alignment to complete engine or transmission overhaul. Students work under the direction and instruction of Mr. Wilk and Mr. Britch and use sophisticated modern equipment to aid them in their work.

Mr. Baker is the related teacher in the Automotive Department, and daily he gives the students the theory related to the practical aspects of their work.

When possible, students are employed in the Co-operative Program, working full-time at different garages in the school district during their shop week for regular wages. In the spring qualified seniors that can best represent the shop are entered in competition in the Plymouth Troubleshooting Contest from which McCann has emerged victorious for two consecutive years.

BEAUTY CULTURE

The Beauty Culture course enables students to learn the skills and techniques necessary to become successful in the field of Cosmetology. Through this course a student develops into a well-informed, conscientious, and safety-minded beautician. The instructors, Mrs. Cuddleback in the laboratory and Mrs. Tassone in the related classroom, teach the students cleanliness, accuracy and precision in all work, care and use of all tools and equipment used, and an appreciation of natural beauty, creativeness, and the standards of Cosmetology.

While in the shop, among the other duties, the students have an opportunity to experiment with hair style and color. Redhead, blond, or perhaps brunett -- all tend to make the halls of McCann a year-round Fall Foliage of color rivalled only by Nature; and styles, as unpredictable as our weather, are a common sight in our halls.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION

The Distributive Education Course -- a program of instruction in marketing, merchandising, and management -- prepares students for careers in sales and retailing.

During their junior year, students learn salesmanship, store operation, advertising and sales promotion, marketing, and merchandising display under the direction of Mr. Naughton. The senior year consists of studying business management under the direction of Mr. Kalkowski.

The students operate and staff the school store, and many of the seniors work in local stores under the Co-operative Program. All members of the DE Course belong to the DECA CLUB, a very active social and civic-conscious organization, and compete in business contests on a district, state, and national level.

ELECTRICITY

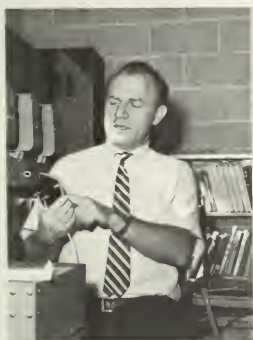

The Electricity Course is one of the more popular courses offered at McCann as attested by the fact that this year the laboratory was enlarged to provide more practical working space. A student in this course gains the knowledge necessary to become a safe and skilled apprentice. He gains creditable working hours toward a Journeyman's License. Theory, science, National Electric Code, and blueprint reading are taught by Mr. Dickinson, while practical laboratory experience is under the direction and instruction of Mr. Hartlage and Mr. Hamlin. Besides this practical experience in the lab, a typical day may find these students doing maintenance work on the school electrical system.

Seniors may be eligible to work as apprentice electricians at the General Electric Company in Pittsfield, or with local electrical contractors, through the Co-operative Program.

ELECTRONICS

The Electronics Course provides students with an understanding of electronic theories and principles and their uses. In the classroom Mr. Szewczyk teaches related subjects such as basic electronics, computational mathematics, electronic drafting, and safety.

The laboratory is under the guidance of Mr. Hover. Here the students apply the theories to practical applications in electronic experiments dealing with AC and DC principles, vacuum tube and transistor operation, and the various types of electronic equipment.

It is to this department that the school looks to repair the various electronic equipment in use throughout the school, and to enable us to watch important events on classroom TV's.

FOOD SERVICE

The Food Service Course prepares students for careers in any of the several phases of food preparation and handling. The major areas of concentration include menu planning, food management, storage, food chemistry, quantity preparation and baking, hygiene and sanitation, safety and terminology.

Under the direction and instruction of Mr. Crawford and Mr. Cantone, ably assisted by Mrs. Vecellio, students prepare and serve all lunches in the cafeteria, as well as preparing and serving all meals in the Tea Room, which is open to the public every Tuesday and Friday.

Related instruction in the classroom is applied both in the kitchen and bakery and in the cafeteria.

MACHINE TECHNOLOGY

Machine Technology is the precision shop in the school. Under the direction of Mr. Pyra and Mr. Ramocki, students learn to operate with control and precision the highly sophisticated machines used in the shop, as well as to put into use the theories of machine technology taught by Mr. Gray in the classroom.

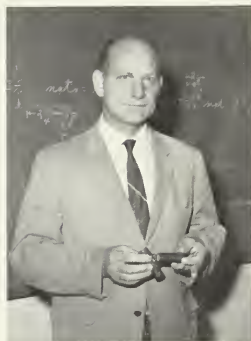

The course not only teaches the fundamentals of basic machines, such as lathes, milling machines and grinders, but also gives instruction in tool making, diemaking, inspecting parts, and assembling of machine tools.

The Machine Technology Department is in the process this year of moving into larger quarters in order to better utilize the sophisticated and expensive equipment that is necessary to train skilled and knowledgeable machinists.

PLANT MAINTENANCE

The purpose of the Plant Maintenance Course is to prepare young men to work in the maintenance department of commercial and industrial establishments. The shop work is under the direction and instruction of Mr. Babula and Mr. Upton, while the related classroom theory is taught by Mr. Choquette.

The curriculum includes training in wood-working, painting, electricity, machine shop, plumbing, heating, and metal working.

During the four years at McCann students are guided in three forms of Plant Maintenance: general maintenance; specific trade basics, such as painting, plumbing and heating repair service; and "thinking maintenance", diagnosing mechanical and technical problems and prescribing corrective measures.

Expansion into the old and much larger Automotive shop and the great number of jobs done around the school testify to the popularity and need for this course.

TECHNICAL OFFICE OCCUPATIONS

The Technical Office Occupations Course trains students to become efficient technical office personnel, giving them a broad background in the operation of modern business machines and data processing.

Students take basic courses such as typing, record keeping, office practice, business math, and accounting. They are trained in the operation of the most modern business machines, and qualified students may choose to specialize in Electronic Data Processing and/or Programming.

The focal point of the T00 laboratory is the 1130 IBM Computer, the largest computer in any area high school. Because of the large selection of up-to-date equipment in this course, students provide many services to the school and to the community at large.

TOOL & MACHINE DESIGN

The Tool & Machine Design Course, more affectionately called Drafting, teaches students the fundamentals of drafting, production detail drawing, machinery power transmissions, elements of drafting and elements of designing. The course is taught by Mr. Keyes.

The applied subjects are algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. Drafting room practices and procedures, as well as shop theory and its applications, are the basic sciences of the course.

Whenever any department needs charts, signs, or lettering done, they turn to this department. The course meets the requirements of the American Institute for Design and Drafting. Qualified seniors are placed in local industries under the Co-operative Program.
